Systems & Symbiosis

The Bowel Nosodes Reappraised

Dr Russell Malcolm FFHom

An Integrated Medical Seminar for Health Care Professionals & Homeopathic Practitioners

Dr Malcolm has been in practice for more than 25 years and, over the last 18 years, he has used the Bowel Nosodes of Bach & Paterson very extensively in his work.

A deep study of the pre-existing literature has been combined with an extensive audit of his own cases to provide insights into the clinical applications for these remedies.

Many patients with chronic illness have acquired ‘obstacles to cure’. One of the most important of these in western society is caused by derangement of the bowel micro-ecology. Bowel Dysbiosis can render patients chronically sick with features of toxicity, fatigue, impaired resistance, IBS and systemic disturbance. These patients also fail to respond to well-indicated treatments, unless they are treated first with an appropriate bowel nosode.

In this seminar, Dr Malcolm will revise the biology of the GI tract and explore the historical basis for the development of the Bowel Nosodes, he will then describe the materia medica of the nosodes and illustrate their effectiveness with case studies.

Additionally, the mind pictures and remedy relationships will be explored and a specialized repertory for these materials will be introduced.

Case workshops will allow participants to gain experience in the case analysis and use of these specialized resources and materials

This seminar has been delivered in: London, Bucharest, Lisbon, New York, Prague, Birmingham, Glasgow, Utrecht, Lower Saxony, Washington DC and Moscow since its first presentation in 2002.

Programme

Day 1

Introduction

Revisiting Miasms: workshop session

The history of the bowel nosodes

The micro-ecology of health & disease

Taxonomy and identification of the nosodes

Materia medica of the bowel nosodes

Case Workshop

Day 2

Bowel Nosodes and their relationship to the Materia Medica.

Workshop

Bowel Nosodes and the Repertory

Workshop

Bowel Nosodes and the Mind

Therapeutic Guidelines

Conclusions and Discussion

Dr Russell Malcolm is the Dean of the Faculty of Homeopathy and has overarching responsibility for the Faculty’s educational and examination activities in the UK and Internationally. He is a Fellow of the Faculty and Senior Lecturer at University College London Hospitals NHS Trust in the Academic Department of the Royal London Hospital for Integrated Medicine. He runs a busy independent practice and practices within the National Health Service in Tayside.